

JUST INTERNATIONAL SCIENCE: REIMAGINING COLLABORATIONS

Join us on Friday, March 29th, 2024
for a day full of networking and learning about international research and collaborations with Dr. Jordi Rivera Prince
from Brown University

FOR STUDENTS ONLY

Forming Sustained Communities: What we can do in grad school

9-11 am | Reitz Union Rm 2365

An informal discussion about how to succeed as a graduate student establishing international collaborations. During this breakfast event, Dr. Jordi Rivera Prince will share lessons learned on building sustained international connections. Please RSVP using the QR code.

FOR FACULTY AND STUDENTS

An Equity-Centered Approach to Academic Writing

3 pm | Reitz Union Rm 2365

In this talk, Rivera Prince focuses on academic writing, as peer-reviewed publication is the moment when knowledge production is instantiated, and therefore a key space for contesting power structures within academia. She introduces a writing method she and her community coauthors have been practicing for three years, which centers joy, personal relationships, care, and trust, over an individualistic writing approach.
NO REGISTRATION NEEDED!

For more information contact:
Andrea Birgit Chavez - achavez@ufl.edu

